Many dances have been given at which the music is furnished by radiophone and amplifier.

A popular newspaper poet recites his own verses to the delight of a wide-spread circle of admirers.

Newspapers in all parts of the country are now utilizing the radiophone for the benefit of the public. Newspapers in more than a dozen cities are sending out weather reports, markets, and news bulletins, together with phonograph and current music

Within an hour of the brondcasting of the news service bulletin of the United States De-partment of Agriculture from the powerful government plant at Arlington, Va., just across the river from Washington, the items of that report are in the hands of the farmers in the farthest corner of the country. This news is received from Arlington in regular commercial telegraph code at six local broadcasting stations covering Omaha, North Platte, Neb.; Rock Springs, Wyo., and Elko, Nev. each of these plants the report is decoded and read at a stipulated hour over the radio phone to the listening farmers.

The United States forest service has found radio to be indispensable in forest patrol. It has taken over many of the unused sets of apparatus intended for war use by the army and has equipped its rangers with them. The aero division of the forest serv ice has been equipped with miniature transmitting sets and is in constant communication with the rangers in every part of the forest. An aviator

Percy Hudson Maxim, world-famous inventor of explosives and the Maxim silencer, is president of the relay leagues. Managers are appointed in each state to take care of routing for messages in that territory.

The lite of the radio bug, known as radioitis, is spreading over the country in a wireless epidemic. One of the peculiar effects of this ailment is its effect upon the written English of the victim. This is a typical radio bug's letter:

"Dear Ham: Ur sigs hrd hr tonite vry QSA No QSS but QRM vry bad .-CUL Best 73's. RADY O. KNUTT."

Nobody but a fellow sufferer could read that. In business English it means: "Your signals heard here tonight very loud. No fading, but interference very bad. Best regards."

With the radio, nothing is impossible. This is the assurance given to the world by scientists who are constantly experimenting with the mysteries of wireless waves.
